Hi Sam,

If the student met his/her or goals, the IEP team should recommend that the student return to the less restrictive team without a trial period. There can be consideration for the student to receive some segments with GNETS if the team feels like full reintegration might not work for the student. Please let me know if this helps.

I have a system that want students to come back on a trial basis for two weeks before they are staff back. These are students that have met the established exit criteria and mastered behavioral goals.
